Turning off validation emails

To enable you to have access to certain parts of PURE you have been assigned a role within PURE called “Editor of Research Outputs”, however, this role also allows users to manage the validation workflow for new outputs being entered into PURE.

If you are not part of the group of staff who deal with the validation workflow (library) you can now turn these email alerts off:

1. When in PURE click on your name in the top right hand corner of the screen and select Email settings from the menu that opens.

2. Click on the arrow next to Research Output and another list of notifications will appear.

3. Change the mail frequency preference to “Mails are never sent” for all types under the editorial task category.
