Sketch of the day

Today's sketch depicts the sizeable effects of Donald Trump on politics in the United States in 2016. Trump is trying to win the Republican candidacy for the presidential election later this year and his meteoric rise has sent shockwaves around the U.S. political system. Trump is running a very successful campaign but has also proven himself a divisive figure. Some of Trump's pledges include a ban on Muslims entering America and proposals to build a wall along the U.S.-Mexican border. The sketch suggests that Trump's spectacular rise is down in part to the American people becoming disillusioned with the current political status quo and therefore backing Trump in the hope that he will mix things up a bit, a role that so far he has performed with particular aplomb.
